SPEECH OF OF KENTUCKY,

Upon the Army Bill, Delivered in the House of Representatives on Wednesday, 17th inst.

Mr. MARSHALL, of Kentucky, said: Mr. Speaker, I did not expect to address the ands the reasons, I shall be satisfied. The opposition which thus far has displayed itself presents two fronts, each of which singularly enough, by a member from the Com-mittee on Military Affairs. On the one hand, the Administration, represented by the member from Virginia, [Mr. Faulkner,] is not pleased hecause the bill does not provide for an increase of the standing Army; on the other, a class of tatesmen, represented by the gentleman from Ohio, Mr. Stanton, lis not pleased because the military force is increased at all. In medio tutis simus ibis. The committee thought the force should be yielded to the call of the Executive, to meet the exigencies of public affairs known to exist, but that the standing Army should not be Hence the bill which is under disfor by the War Department, but selects them ed!" from the eitizen soldiery rather than from regu

The speceh of the gentleman from Virginia was an elegant amplification of the same views which had been presented by the report of the Secretary of War. He treated the subject in two points of view: first, without regard to the condition of affairs in Utah; second, embracing the eondition of affairs in Utah as a proper element in the decision of the question. I propose briefly to follow his argument, and to make, in military phrase, a close reconnoisance of his positions, for am impressed with the idea they have no great

The gentleman commenced by stating the actual strength of the Army at about thirteen thousand men. How strong the Army is depends upon where it is; for, under the laws, the company may be composed of only fifty two privates, or i may contain seventy four members. The President has the legal right to expand the companies whonever the Army is posted in certain localities; otherwise he has no right. "The Army, as posted," says the Adjutant General, "is sevenactual strength on the 1st of last July was fif teen thousand seven hundred and sixty-four "e gentleman from Virginia says a deduction should be made from this statement of the Adju-tant General by taking off engineers and ordance men. Well, that would reduce it some three hundred and fifty; indeed, if he were to subtract the whole general field and staff, as well as engi neers and ordance department, it would not re duce the number to fitteen thousand men. He thinks the non commissioned officers should also be deducted; but since these serve in the line, they are to be counted, and are the best and most effective of all the troops in the Army; so that the gentleman failed at the beginning to tell us, the strength of the Army. His first position is Army is overworked. The extended field of its labors so demands the presence of force at a variety of points at the same time, that it is quite impossible for the existing Aimy to meet the public requirements. Its efficiency is impaired by the subdivisions to which it is subjected, and its energies are exhausted by the constant toils, fatigues, and sufferings to which it is exposed. Hence it should be increas-

To demonstrate this statement the testimony of Generals Scott and Jessup is appealed to; incidents of service are recounted from the Army reports; we are told of hard marches; rapid and long pursuits of the enemy; extreme suffering from thirst and hunger; exposures to the inclemencies of the weather; and of brilliant achievements under all these difficulties. Yes, exclaims the member from Virginia, these men have been eompelled to sleep upon the snow; to cat their horses which had given out under the toils of ser vice; and yet they have stormed three Indian en compments in a single da! The arsenal from which he derives all this artillery of declama tion is the special order of General Scott, to be found accompanying the report of the Sceretary between detachments from the corps of the Ar my and the Indians of this country. He says these "are all which have occurred since the beginning of last year, to which my attention has been directed." It is fair to infer that the list comprises all that have in fact occurred; for as these have been selected to grace the annals and to illustrate the exploits of a gallant Army through eighteen months of service; surely none of equal moment or brilliancy have escaped the vigilant eye of the brave old veteran who kindly in dorses them to the applause and gratitude of Marked for a place in the Panthcon by the ehief of the Army, and reproduced for special let me ask what amount of force and what kind admiration here, under the fervid and glowing of force will meet the demand for a military po declamation of the gentleman from Virginia, you will be surprised, sir, when I declare to you that the impression I received from a perusal of the statement of these "gallant exploits" was far difon detachment, the time employed in service, the on detachment, the time employed in service, the police force, we now have scarcely one man to police force, we now have scarcely one man to the of these emigrant routes. Usually, the "gallant exploit" was that of a young lieutenant with his platoon, or of a sering small bands of roving and starving Indians before, it was kind and considerate in the eom their cames and gallant service be attested by his signature to their comrades and the country; but what do you think must be his emotions when he beholds the uses to which they have been put in this debate? I from the history of this adventure that from the history of this adventure that my friend from Virginia rises, all cuthused with military ardor, to exclaim, in tones of mounted or afoot, as he may prefer, armed as cussion, which provides the five regiments called gushing eloquence, "Let the Army be increas-

The Army overworked! Where? How? When What foe has it encountered worthy the name of an encmy, except in the scrvice performed by Lieutevant Colonel Buchanan in Oregon, and possibly in a gallant repulse given to the Indians in Washington by Steptoe and Keyes? None; I dare say, none, sir; for I do not suppose Colonel Summer regards his pursuit of the Cheyennes, in Kansas, as worthy of me fron among his deeds of real war.

But Quartermaster General Jesup is eited as aving said that our Army travels over more ground than any hundred thousand men in any other service, and therefore the Army should be increased, argues the gentleman from Vir-

The Quartermaster General forms his judgment pon the length and magnitude of his own transportation accounts, I suppose; and I quite agree with him, that they would seem to represent the ovement of a hundred thousand men rather than of the little corps of our skeleton Army. I o not helieve such amounts for "transporta ou" can be exhibited in any other service in the world; but I confe-s my inability to perceive how he public burden, in this particular, is to be all eviated by adding to the number of men to demand additional transportation! I do not mean to impugu the integrity of the accounts, for I have no bt they are all right upon the requisitions hey have filled; their magnitude is occasioned by the long voyages by sea and river, and by the ng distances overland by which supplies have be furnished to outposts. But the Quarter master General would concur in my opinion, I imagine, that the only remedy for this misfortune would be such an increase of the Army that divisions of it might be permanently assigned to military departments, to remain therein for term of years; so that, when detachments might pe required to move from one point to anothe of the department, the movement might be made by marches instead of by steam and rail over great distances, and so that the soldiers might earn their subsistence, in great part, by working fields and raising stock around their per manent military homes. Then his transportation ccounts would diminish; but the Paymaster Gen eral's pay accounts would increase; and we ould probably find, in the result, that transpor tation was only exchanged into pay for additional personnel to the Army corps. I doubt whether such an exchange would be either a sound or wise economy. So much for the first position of the gentleman rom Virginia. He assumed another, thus: the policy of Government having concentrated the Indian tribes west of the Mississippi, as the em igrant routes to the Pacific traverse the region through which the Indians now roam, the safety of the emigrants demands a military police of the paths of emigration, which the existing Army cannot furnish, but to which the public faith is nipliedly pledged by the obligation every Gov eriment owes to afford protection to its people when legitimately employed. When the policy was adopted of removing the Indiaus to the west of War. In that order the commanding General introduces twenty five cases of actual conflicts trate them so as to avoid the requisition of an additional force to guard against their hostilties. This was General Jackson's avowed policy; and it seems to me singular that this very concentra tion of the Indians should afford the especial reason upon which now to base the application for an increase of the military force If the argument succeeds, the vote will be a pointed con demuation of Jackson's administration, and a ectification, at the public expense, of the errors to which he subjected the country. Is that a point the Democratic party now proposes, under the guidance of the gentleman from Virginia, to

The routes are numer ous-the points of destination for the enigrant as various nearly as the differing latitude of We are told by the gentleman that, as a every two miles of these emigrant routes What additional security would five regiments yield, if disposed in detachments along the same lines?— But when you commence the system, in response to the alleged governmental obligation, where will you stop? Directly the tide of emigration will If a whole year of service brings forth no more of toil, of hardship, of conflict and conquest, than this hunting down of "a few lone Indiaus," we apply this military police to the route from Bexar apply this military police to the route from Bexar El Paso; from Arkansas to Santa Fe; from El protection, provided he has to travel over wild crness and wastes? The men who settled the try of our Army officers or men, or to detract valleys of the Ohio and the Mississippi had no from a proper estimate of their public services. The Army has no friend to its true interests in search of new lands. They had no army to warmer than I am, for no one knows better than I do the sterling worth, the accomplished education, the disciplined intellect, the chivalrie sense went forth from the Atlautic settlements with of true honor, that pervades the officers of that their wives and children, depending upon their Army. It was well enough to mention these own sagacity, prudence, and courage, for success, eases in an order from headquarters, if there was and there established that great domain beyond nothing else to mention, for I know such honor the mountains which is now the heart and power able remark is a spur to young ambition, and has a most beneficial effect upon the esprit de corps of the Army; hut, sir, it is out of the American has ever complained or filed his peti question to draw on such an order, addressed to tion here for a safe guard of regular soldiers to the Army by General Scott, as material to be escort him across the continent? I am disposed the nation's judgment to an increase of the Army!

Overworked! Why, Mr. Speaker, of these twenty five eases of "conflicts," it appears thirteen occurred during last year in the military devenue of Tayas. The action is not a control of the conflicts of the conflict o he protected who leave their homes in one part of the country to seek their fortunes in another. It involves the idea of an enormous and exhausgate of service, specified in these reports, was tive expense; for these troops must be supplied; sixty days in the eighteen months; and the whole they must be sheltered from the snows of winter and the rains of summer; their elothing and pro visious must be transported to them; and, after a young lieutenant with his platoon, or of a ser ing small bands of roving and starving Indians geant with his squad, and most frequently the from erossing the route of the emigrant when no a young lieutenant with his platoon, or of a sergeant with his platoon, or of a sergeant with his squad, and most frequently the

As to the amount of force, the Committee on Military Affairs has adopted the hasis presented by the Executive. He demands five regiments; the hill provides for five. But the gentleman It is as the President desires; that he asks for one sort riflemen or musketry, as dragoons or light eaval-ry, voltigeurs or lancers, just as he may wish.— Congress could not be more liberal. That is not the point of complaint with the Administration. It demands regulars-regulars, sir; and the hill provides for eitizen volunteers. The gentleman from Virginia acknowledges this to oe the difficulty, and, as I think most unfortunately for the Administration, has undertaken to prove, by reference to the reports from the War Office, that the citizen soldiery of this country is less efficient, more expensive, less worthy of confidence in every military point of view than troops enlisted in the regular Army. I deny this proposition in the name of the American people. It is not sustained by the history of our country; it is not sus tained by the facts in any war in which the United States have ever engaged. Unroll the roster of the military names of America, and for every one that is conspicuous for gullantry, service, or skill helonging to the regular Army, I will furnish two from those who sprang from the hody of the people to meet the erisis, were actors at the head of your forces in the same campaigns, and stand the peers in every respect of the regulars who may seek to institute this invidious comparison. It was the young Virginian volunteer who saved the wreeks of the British Army from utter destruction drawn upon it by the folly and ignorance of Braddock, its regular commander.

Sec. 5. And be it further enacted, That the It was that same officer who conducted our wa of independence to its great result. The Ten essecan, drawn from eivic pursuits, illustrated Jacob Brown-in the same war, came from the pursuits of civil life to recover ground lost by the regular general theretofore in charge of your armies. They erowd upn the memory to illustrate the truth of my gen eral proposition; but I will stand upon the re of the Mexican war to vindicate the cluim of the citizeu volunteer to the confidence of his country against the aspirations which have been cast up on his efficiency. It may be possible that the list of the dead and wounded of the regulars, in cluding the charge on Molino del Rcy, exhibits a greater number of regulars than of volunteen in the valley of Mexico; but does it exhibit that superiority in proportion to the numbers of each engaged in the actions? If it did, I ask whether proves the point of the gentleman from Vigin ia, to wit: that the regular walks to death where the volunteer soldier fears to tread; or that the volunteer is not selected in the service for lan gerous and destructive efforts, when the regular are at hand? I say no such deduction can he fairly drawn from the facts, and that the history of the Mexican war does not exhibit a single in stance in which the regular soldiery of our Army recovered ground that the volunteer had abardon ed, or led into the deadly and imminent breach which the volunteer shrank from. I defy the War Office and those who have got up this assault upon the volunteers, to bring forward a single case which can truthfully illustrate such a state ment. On the contrary, I think the history o that war affords the proudest vindication of the title of the citizen soldiery to the confidence

FOR CLERK OF THE COURT OF APPEALS, GEORGE R. McKEE, OF PULASKI COUNTY.

Do Not Forget!

That the different Councils of Franklin County are expected to meet at such times as they may severally find convenient, so as to appoint delegates to attend at the Court House in Frankfort on the 3d Monday in April (County Court day,) to se lect candidates of the American Party for the following offices: County Judge, Coun-Assessor, Coroner, and Surveyor.

HUMPHREY MARSHALL'S SPEECH:--We need of fer no apology to our readers for giving up con siderable space to the speech of the Representative from the Louisville district. It is by far the ablest speech delivered upon the subject, or either side, in the House, and at once settled the question in that body. He answered all the obections raised against volunteer troops in a most masterly manner, and with biting sarcasm ex posed the miserable sophistries of the friends of the administration. Colonel Marshall being himself a graduate of West Point, and having served with distinguished gallantry in Mexico at the head of a crack regiment of Kentucky vol unteers, may be supposed to be well acquainted with military affairs, and fully competent to dis cuss the question. He is entitled to the thanks of every Kentuckian who served as a volunteer iu Mexico, for his able vindication of their gal lantry and services against the foul aspersion which the administration has sought to cast upor them. He harled back with indignation the sha thrown upon the regulation of the citizen soldiery and, without disparaging our regular army, drew comparison in which he gave full eredit to the former. It must be gratifying to the freemen of Kentucky to see the manner in which Colone Marshall ridiculed the idea that a soldier should be a mere maeline, to load, fire, and wheel merely at the bidding of the officer, without be ing imbued with the spirit which should eve characterize men who fight for their country, its independence, and their homes. It is the policy of the Democratic administration to fill the ranks of the army with men who fight merely for the pitiful sum which is given them per mouth, re gar less whether their cause is just or not. Col onel Marshall held up to the contempt of the people the idea that the soldier must be destitute of patriotism, and that on that account the regu lars are preferable to the volunteer, who is actu ated by his love of country and thirst for individ ual glory and renown.

Colonel Marshall has already proved himself a thorn in the side of the administration, and has won for the small body in Congress at whose head he stands the respect of the entire nation .-Two such speeches as those delivered by him in and influence upon their respective topics no, possessed by the speeches of any others in Con country The Americans of the Louisville dis wledged as he is to be the leader of the Americans in the House, and the peer of any man in Congress, of any party.

JUDGE MCKEE'S APPOINTMENTS .- We publish to-day a list of appointments for public speaking by llon. Gro. R. McKee, the American eandi date for Clerk of the Court of Appeals, extend ing up to the 12th of May next. In due time Judge McKee will fix other appointments until he shall have canvassed every county in the State. We hope the Americans, in every place where our able and eloquent champion has appointed to speak will give such general notice and make such arrangements as will secure large attend ance. From all parts of the State where he has addressed the people, we hear expressions of sat isfaction and delight at the bild and masterly manner in which he advocates the great cause of Americanism. Wherever he has been an enthusiasm has been aroused which augurs well for his success and the triumph of American principles in August next. Ilis appointments, now publish ed, are principally in the mountain counties, and we shall be much mistaken if his speeches do not produce a revolution in political sentiment, in that portion of the State, which will require more fifteen minutes' speeches from Mr. Revill, than the time will allow between now and August.

Again we urge our friends to give Judge Me Kee such audiences as will distribute far and wide the eloquent and infallable truths with which he illustrates the principles of the Ameri-

A FINE OPENING FOR FILLIBUSTERS.—The Sul tan of Turkey, desirous to develop the resources of the Empire, we see, has thrown open to the settlement of foreign families, a territory of something over 30,000 square miles, including districts of remarkable and well known fertility, and skirted by a sea coast nearly 3,500 miles in extent, washed by no less than six seas, with nu merous and well known harbors, in the Mediterranean, Adriatic, Archipelago, Black and Red seas, and the Persian Gulf. Here now is a splendid opportunity for our Yankee Fillibusters, who Whig. The writer was a member of the Le must be just now pining for something to do. A compton Convention, and tells what he knows: Fillibuster upon the shores of the Red Sea would be a sight, indeed. Where is Wm. Walker? Where is Gen. Henningsen? Why not emi grate to the Bosphorus right off? We can think of but one drawback to the success of such an now, to confess the truth and shame the devil, we, emigration to Turkey -and that is, the habits of the pro slavery men, cannot expect any merey or industry which the Sultan insists upon. The genus fillibuster will fight, kill, burn or destroy, Kansas, we have denied this, to prevent discouror steal, but plodding industry, we fear, is a thing not at all in his way.

We are indebted to Hon. James B. Clav, and Hun. W. L. Underwood, for valuable public documents, they will accept our thanks.

Robert Carmichael.

It is with feelings of profound sorrow, that we announce the death of ROBERT CARMICHAEL, formerly of this city, but more recently a citizen of Chicago. His death occurred in Cincinnati on the 17th January last, where he had gone on ome urgeut business, and was attacked with Typhoid Pneumonia, one of the most fatal diseases of our winter climate, and so rapid was its progress that in a very few days he was brought to an untimely grave. His remains were interred on last Sabbath in our eemetery. The deceased was a native of Scotland and about 38 years of It would not be just to the dead or to the living to close this funeral notice without some allusion to the character and services of this estimable gentleman. Ilis first visit to Kentucky was in ompliance with an invitation from the Frankfort Cemetery Company to aid them in the selection of a suitable place for a burying gound and to suggest the best mode for its improvement. Previous to his arrival, several points had been spo ken of, but to his cultivated mind and exquisite ty Court Clerk, Sheriff, County Attorney, natural taste, the present site presented such manifest superiority over all the others that he ad vised its purchase. This was accordingly done, and the whole grounds placed at once under his superintendence. At that time, those grounds. now not only eelebrated throughout the Union, out made familiar to the people of England and Scotland by the high encomiums passed upon them by their tourists, were in a great measure given up to the thorn and briars and such unseemly plants as spring from a worn out soil. -The river cliff, along which that romantic path now winds in its marvellous beauty, eausing the meditative man to pause, at almost every step, o gaze upon the ever varying loveliness of the cene, was then an abrupt and inaccesible preci nice. Its bold buttresses of everlasting and rug ged limestone-the distant hills lying in their wonderful combinations and convolutions of en chanting grace, with their lofty summits glowing in the garniture of the primeval forest, were all nnoted, and the beautiful stream from which our roud State has taken its imperishable name then lowed on in almost unobserved silence. And then, too, the illustrious pioneer, the man whose sold adventure, now adorus alike the page of the Historian, the seene of the Dramatist and the song of the Poet, rested in an obscure grave in a disant State without that requiem which alone was fitting for the sleep of Boone-the quiet murmur ing of his own beloved Kentueky. Now how changed the scene! What a monument is there resented to the exquisite taste, judgment and eling of Robert Carmichael! No schemer has over interfered, even to the smallest iota, with his original design, but it now stands and ever will tand just as it was fashioned by that master ar hiteet, save only that the trees planted by his and will continue to expand their br.nehes and com up more lofty their evergreen crown, and the flowers, fit emblems of his pure, guileless and gentle spirit, will now widely spread over the graves of the sleepers, embalming them in those weet testimonies of the heart's best affections .-In aid, too, of this magnificent landscape which his genius unveiled to the eye of taste, the art of the sculptor and the gratitude of Kentucky have lent their willing assistance. Everywhere pri vate monuments of the purest marble from the quarries of Cararra are to be seen, but chiefly is the attention arrested by that splendid column the House and Crittenden in the Senate, both on erceted by Kentucky to her illustrious deadthe same day, and each carrying with it a weight avouching to posterity the heroism of our ances tors and inciting those who may follow, to pass on, untarnished, the great names of their fathers gress, at once gave the small body of National even to the last syllable of recorded time. Nor Americans a commanding position before the have the fruits of these labors of Carmichael been confined alone to the grounds of the Franktriet may well be proud of their Representative, fort Cemetery. He has diffused throughout Kentucky and the West a deeper feeling of respect for the dead. Instead now of burials in waste places, and leaving the dead in the midst of fields where their graves were soon obliterated by the plough share, or in unclosed spots given up to the feet of the rambling animals as browsing places, almost every village has its regularly in as many of them as will enable him to work the orporated cometery, and a great reproach to our eivilization has thus been wiped way. Having completed this great work, he embark. d subsequently in various enterprises-including, imong others, an expedition over the plains to California, and, while in that region, he observed, with the eye of a cultivated botanist, the mag part of the world his acquaintance extended .--But time will not permit us longer to enlarge on this topic. We cannot dismiss it, however, without a tribute to his sterling integrity-his cultivated mind-and his social virtues. No man ever lived who had a nicer sense of honor or a kinder or trucr heart. He was indeed a mau without guile-ardent in his friendship, generous in his confidence and unsuspicious in his temper. And while he loved this, his adopted country, with all the ardor of a true friend to liberty and the rights of man, he never gave up his love for his native land or his fond affections for his kindred and the friends of his youth. His ven erable father still lives, and the news of the death of this favorite son will come to him as the most dreary blast of his wintery age. Yet let him take comfort in the fact that Robert has not died unlamented in this distant land—tears his wife. (He had previously resided there, but had been compelled to abscond by the citizens be have fallen fast and thick for him. His mortal remains will repose with those of friends who loved him long and mourned him dead, and a mon ument close by the mound of Daniel Boone will point out the spot where the man of genius, of however, soon arrived, and boldly effected the honor and of virtue sleeps in the undisturbed salemnity of the chamber of death.

LETTING THE CAT OUT OF THE BAG. - The following is an extract from a letter written from Kansas, on beb. 24th, 1858, to the Vieksburg

"My reason for leaving is, I think, a good one. I cannot stay any longer. I have been, as every one must be, identified with politics. I, unfor tunately for my luture prospect in Kansas, have taken an active and rather prominent part. And the pro slavery men, cannot expect any merey or favors from the d-d Abolitionists; for, although we have been in a minority ever since I came to every law abiding man to restrain as far as pos we have been in a minority ever since I came to aging emigration from the South, and have bul lied and swindled them in our elections, until even 1 admit they have a right to feel outraged. in the offcaces of the victim.—Lexington States-To day they outnumber us at least four or five to The disproportion is too great for fight any longer—the more so from the fact that

Utah Expedition-Interesting from Col. A. S. Johnston.

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT Of UTAH, ? Camp Scott, January 20, 1858.

Major: I have nothing material to report since my last communication. Accompanying that, I sent a file of the Descret News, containing he message of Brigham Young to the Legisla ture of Utah You have in that message and the resolutions of the Legislature their disloyalty to the Union heretolore made against this people My information respecting their conduct since is that their troops are organized to resist the es tablishment of a territorial government by the United States, and, in furtherance of that object hey have erected works of detense in the moun ain passes and near Salt Lake city. Knowing how repugnant it would be to the policy or inte st of the government to do any act that would force these people into unpleasant relations with he Federal Government, I would in conformity with the views also of the commanding general, on all proper occasions have manifested in my intercourse with them a spirit of conciliation; but I do not believe that such consideration for them would be properly appreciated now, or rather would be wrongly interpreted; and, it view of the treasonable temper and feeling now pervading the leaders and greater portion of the Mormons, I think that neither the honor nor dig nity of the government will allow of the slight est concession being made to them.

They should be made to submit to the consti tutional and legal demands of the government unconditionally; au adjustment of existing difficulties on any other basis would be nugatory.

Their threat to oppose the march of the troop

n the spring will not have the slightest influ ence in delaying it; and if they desire to join is sue, I believe it is for the interest of the govern ment that they should have the opportunity

On the night of the 11th of this month I sent an express to Santa Fe, to acquaint Gen. Gar-land with the design of the Mormous to intercephe caballadda it is expected Capt. Marcy oring on from New Mexico, and to ask additional force to his escort. I will also take other measures to thwart them. I send herewith a let ter of Lieut. Burns on the subject of a transpor ation corps. As a question of the highest inter est to the government, in respect to the mobility of our troops and economy of administration o he business of the quartermaster's department, t emineutly commends itself to the attention o he General in Chief. It is of great importance that such a corps, properly organized, be created, and it is with the view of asking the consid eration of the subject by the commanding general that I forward the letter of Lieut. Burns who has much experience as assistant quartermaster. To make effective the field battery in charge of Capt. Reno, and to retain in service at this time a number of soldiers whose period of service is guns. If this act is approved by the ing General, I request that he will ask for it the anction of the Secretary of War, who, under the uthority of the law of the 18th June, 1846, can fix the number of the ordinance corps. The winter is not cold as was anticipated from the severity of the beginning, and the healthfulness of the climate at this season is unsurpassed; there are but very few soldiers sick from climate nificent Flora of that wonderful country, and causes. Saturday last, two men, Griffin and Kennedy suppected of having been engaged in the work, were arrested and lodged in the Paris jail Griffin was arrested in Maysville. When w few miles of Paris, under charge of the Mays ville officers, he asked and obtained permission to enter a little grocery on the roadside, kept by cause of his nefarious trafic with slaves.) Immedi ately upon his entrance in the house he was join ed by several confederates armed with guns, and together they defied the entrance of th he Marshal of Paris and the Sheriff of Bourbon orisoner was then conveyed to Paris, at which place he was with some difficulty protected from a very summary punishment by the hands of an infuriated erowd. The preliminary examination The preliminary examination has not yet taken place, and the evidence of their guilt has not been made public. We can well sympathize in the feeling of the good people of Bourbon, and if the prisoners are guilty, we trust the extreme penalty for their offences may be uflieted. There are few more infamous, fiendish rimes than that of arson.

Since the above was in type we learn that on ast night the excitement against the culprits ose to such a degree in Paris, that the jail was forced open and one of the prisoners, Griffiu, he who had resisted the officers, was taken out and ible the assumption of the execution of the law by the populace.
